About This Catalog

The Native American Studies Catalog of ProQuest microform contains over 30 research collections and 20 serials. Inside you will find titles related to Native American language, art, history and culture. This catalog also contains information on obtaining Dissertations on Native American Studies.

This catalog would be of particular interest to researchers in the fields of Native American Studies, Indigenous People, History and Anthropology.

One pivotal collection from the catalog is, Duke Indian Oral History Collection. This collection consists of first-hand accounts of Indian history, culture and philosophy. For libraries looking to enhance their newspapers on microform, the collection, Contemporary Newspapers of the North American Indian, includes nearly 50 prominent Native American newspapers published between 1924 and 1973. The collection reflects upon the social issues relative to numerous tribes throughout North America - ranging from tribal governance to conservatism to militancy.

This preface provides a glimpse into the contents of the Native American Studies Catalog of ProQuest microform. Feel free to browse through our titles, or if you are looking for a particular research collection, please consult the table of contents. If you have any questions regarding any of our titles, please contact your ProQuest representative at umisalesinfo@proquest.com, 800.521.0600 ext. 2793 or 734.761.4700 ext. 2793.

If you would like additional copies of this or any of our ProQuest Microform Catalogs, you may either make photocopies of the catalogs or contact your ProQuest representative to have printed copies mailed directly to you.

The Advantages of Microform

Despite the continually developing array of digital technologies—and sometimes because of it—information professionals at libraries and universities worldwide still rely on microform. They know it is an archival medium that will meet the needs of researchers for years to come. Microform provides many advantages including:

- New Viewer/Scanners - Images can now be easily sent to remote locations using microform viewer/scanners, which link to your computer workstations, letting you view and print articles or digitize and transmit them electronically (within Fair Use guidelines). This approach combines the unparalleled preservation and storage benefits of microform with the speed and ease of electronic access.
- Special Collections - Microform is the answer if you need hard-to-find or specialty resources. Many older newspapers and periodicals are available only in microform, and it gives your users access to complete page images from historical titles—often from the first issue forward.
- Space Savings - Microform lets you store an extensive collection of complete article images in a small amount of space. Microform takes up less than one-tenth the area of bound copies of newspapers and periodicals.
- Ownership - There is no upkeep or access fees. It uses stable, proven technology you already have, with no need for new workstations or continual software upgrades.
- Clarity and Accuracy - Microform is the answer if you need cover-to-cover clarity and accuracy. Full-image articles are essential to getting the full story.
- Complete Collection - Microform usually is the best solution if you need a complete collection fast. Maybe you're seeking accreditation or even rebuilding after a disaster. An extensive, customized collection of retrospective and current microform titles will meet the needs of your researchers quickly and efficiently.
- Support for Specialized Studies - A compact collection in microform will meet specialized research needs and still leave plenty of resources for the rest of your population. Many libraries also use microform as an added point of access for content that is most in demand.
- Durability - archived properly, it can last for generations, and there is no degradation of images.
- ProQuest Quality - ProQuest's microform images are taken directly from the original printed pages, so you always get the clarity of first-generation copies.

ProQuest Microform is the answer because we've been producing it since 1938. We not only exceed industry standards, we set them. Our microform products include thousands of newspapers and periodicals, and hundreds of research collections, many of which are not available from any other source.

Aborigines' Protection Society

1837 - 1909

Founded in 1837, the Aborigines' Protection Society published tracts, pamphlets and a journal titled The Colonial Intelligencer or Aborigine's Friend. The Society continued until 1909, when it merged with the Anti-Slavery Society. All volumes published by the Aborigines' Protection Society that are in the collection of Anti-Slavery International are compiled here, along with volumes in Rhodes House Library, Oxford. The publications reference numerous native tribes and include:

- The Aborigines of Australia
- The Maoris of New Zealand
- The Native American and Canadian Indians
- The Native South American Indians
- The tribes of Papua/New Guinea and other Melanesian, Polynesian and African tribes

Subjects include the effects of colonization, slavery, forcible removal from ancestral lands, forcible land purchases and land-grabbing; religious practices and conversion; the social state of the various tribes and their interactions with Europeans; and leading personalities, including tribal chiefs and leaders. Included in the collection are the Annual Reports from 1839-1908; The Aborigines' Friend from 1847 to 1909 (originally known as The Colonial Intelligencer, or Aborigines' Friend and Aborigines' Friend and the Colonial Intelligencer) and a volume containing 32 of the Society's pamphlets from 1896-1908.

American Culture Series I (ACSI)

1493 - 1806

Perfect for the smaller library, this collection of books and pamphlets opens with a Christopher Columbus letter of 1493 and Martin Waldseemuller's Cosmographie introduction. The pages of the past are opened to students of American literature, history, and culture through this documentation of pre-1900 Americana, which also includes:

- Richard Hakluyt's famous Divers Voyages and other narratives of travel and exploration
- Writings by Increase and Cotton Mather
- Sermons and religious treatises
- Descriptions and histories of the early colonies
- Accounts of Indians and Indian captives
- Pamphlets on witchcraft and colonial government

18th century selections offer a literary dimension through the poems of John Adams and letters by Jonathan Dickinson, and post-Revolutionary writers such as David Humphreys, John Hope, and Noah Webster. A political overview is added in various tracts on slavery and unfair taxation. Individual reels may be purchased.

The 250 titles in this collection are indexed by author, title and subject in American Culture Series, 1493-1875, A Cumulative Guide, edited by Ophelia Lo

American History and Culture

1930 - 1988

New perspectives on American history, architecture, archaeology, curation and ethnography, from the report files of the National Park Service. Since 1930 the National Park Service has sponsored or acquired thousands of archaeological, architectural, ethnographic, museum collections management and historical research reports exploring the riches of the American heritage. Few have been available even at the largest libraries and research institutions. Now reproduced on microfiche these unique reports offer social and cultural historians, anthropologists and other researchers fresh insights into America's past from Great Smoky Mountains dialect to Great Lakes lighthouse folklore, from prehistoric Native-American earth mounds to Civil War battlefields and presidential furnishings. Untapped resources with a depth of detail unmatched elsewhere, the 5,554 reports include maps, photographs, architectural plans, drawings, letters, diaries and other primary documentation invaluable to cultural research. Accompanying the collection is the Cultural Resources Management Bibliography (CRBIB), also on microfiche, giving swift access to the reports by geographic location, subject, author, title and date.

American State Papers: Documents, Legislative and Executive

1789 - 1838

Now students of political science and legislative history can take a firsthand look at the early course of American history through official records from the legislative and executive branches of government from the First through the Twenty-fifth Congress. Official floor debates, memos, and committee proceedings reflect not only the growth of government, but also the personalities of our early legislative leaders and presidents. Students can trace issues both national and international in scope as recorded in history from the unique perspective of the U.S. lawmakers. The collection is divided and organized into 10 series:

- Foreign Relations, 6 vols., 1789-1828
- Indian Affairs, 2 vols., 1789-1827
- Finance, 5 vols., 1789-1828
- Commerce and Navigation, 2 vols., 1789-1823
- Military Affairs, 7 vols., 1789-1838
- Naval Affairs, 4 vols., 1794-1836
- Post Office Department, 1 vol., 1790-1833
- Public Lands, 8 vols., 1789-1837
- Claims, 1 vol., 1790-1823
- Miscellaneous, 2 vols., 1789-1823

American State Papers reproduces on microfilm unique documents selected and edited under Congressional auspices in the 19th century. With this collection, researchers and students can trace such topics as the development of legislation in relation to historical events and the impact of party politics on the formation of public policy.

The Beynon Manuscript

This classic microfilm collection represents the most extensive body of Tsimshian literature available for linguistic, anthropological and theological scholarship. It also provides documentation on North American Indian myths and traditions. The Tsimshian people are native to the territory along the international border between Alaska and British Columbia. They were cultural innovators who created the totem pole and many other art forms characteristic of the Pacific Northwest coastal region. The Beynon Manuscript was processed and transcribed by William Beynon, a native speaker of the Tsimshian language. He recorded the history, ethnography and literature of his people, preserving an important cultural history for the future. Included in the collection are:

- Narratives of clan histories and myths
- Descriptions of traditional ceremonies, practices and beliefs

In the mid-1930s, Beynon worked with the famed ethnologist and philologist Franz Boas, helping with precise translations of Tsimshian tales that Boas had recorded in phonetic orthography several decades earlier. Beynon added significant material and clarified passages that had been previously misinterpreted. Boas then indexed, abstracted and arranged into several volumes the more than 10,000 pages of The Beynon Manuscript. He presented the entire collection to Columbia University, where the original manuscript is now preserved in the Rare Book and Manuscript Division of Butler Library.

Bureau of American Ethnology Bulletins and Annual Reports, Smithsonian Institution

1879 - 1971

The tribal cultures, history and heritage of Native Americans are of great interest today. Yet, primary sources for exploring these topics have been meager and widely scattered. This significant microfilm collection brings together essential research resources for the study of both North- and South-American Indians. Libraries that serve a Native-American population and institutions supporting research in American history, anthropology or Native-American studies will discover material on the prehistory, language, society and culture of many extinct tribal groups. The collection is divided into two sections:

- Bulletins (V. 1-200, 1887-1971): This segment contains articles, memoirs and monographs for probing such subjects as language, native arts and industries, institutions and organizations, myths and beliefs, ethnobotany, ethnogeography, physical anthropology and archaeology
- Annual Reports (V. 1-48, 1879/1880-1930/1931): The first 47 reports include administrative reports, ethnological papers and monographs covering all phases of aboriginal life plus numerous archaeological surveys. The 48th report includes an index to all preceding reports. Many of these valuable publications are now out of print.

While the bulk of material in this collection focuses on the history of Indian tribes within the United States, there is substantive information on the Indian tribes of Alaska, Hawaii, Mexico, Central America, Canada, Southern Yucatan and Northern Honduras. Many of the bulletins and reports also contain line drawings and photographic illustrations and an additional feature of the collection is a complete series of handbooks on South-American Indians. The collection reproduces an important series of documents of the United States Bureau of American Ethnology under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institution.

Collier, John. The Papers of John Collier

1922 - 1968

Assimilation - the absorption of Indians into the American mainstream - was the dominant theme of United States Indian policy from the late 1880s through the 1920s. It was a program that provoked widespread animosity as it eroded tribal culture, religion, history, and freedom. Researchers in the areas of sociology, political science, international affairs, and Native-American studies will use the primary sources in this collection for in-depth research and study of 20th century Indian affairs. The correspondence, speeches, government documents, court records, and news clippings in this collection record John Collier's private thoughts and public impact during critical years in modern social and political history.

Collier's accomplishments in effecting major Indian rights reforms as executive secretary of the American Indian Defense Association and later as Commissioner of Indian Affairs during Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration marked a turning point in federal Indian policy. His Indian New Deal proposed tribal self-government, cultural preservation, and religious freedom for Native Americans. He also founded the Institute of Ethnic Affairs, an action-oriented research agency that monitored the administration of American territories and dependencies such as Guam, Alaska, and Samoa. Among topics for evaluation and interpretation through this historical collection are:

- The founding of the American Indian Defense Association and its vital role as a key Indian legal aid service
- Collier's lobbying and propoganda crusades to protect Indian cultural and religious ceremonies
- Tribal resistance - especially among the Navajo - to many of Collier's Indian reform measures
- The Institute of Ethnic Affairs' role in monitoring the administration of American territories and its promotion of interracial harmony

The John Collier Papers represents a historical watershed in the history of Native Americans and will enrich any library whose scholars require access to research materials on this important aspect of American history. The collection was filmed from the official Collier archives at Yale University - a renowned repository of materials for the study of American political, social, and economic history.

Constitutions and Laws of the American Indian

This 35mm microfilm program contains approximately 157 separate constitutions, statutes, session acts and resolutions passed by thirteen bodies of semi-independent and self-governing Indian tribes and nations of the United States. All titles listed in the Hargrett bibliography that could be located are included. Additional Indian constitutions and laws discovered have also been filmed. Some of the items were 'last known copies' and their condition is occasionally inferior to that of the rest of the collection; the material was, however, thought too valuable to exclude. Illegible items were not included.

Draper Manuscripts

The Draper Manuscripts, collected by Lyman C. Draper, contain first hand accounts from men and women involved in the emerging American frontier including Draper's own notes on his many interviews with Western pioneers and their descendants. Easily accessible through calendars and a printed guide, the biographies, oral histories and other documents provide important data on military figures, pioneers, Indian leaders and influential families as well as maps and genealogies useful to local and cultural historians. Among the biographical manuscripts are Daniel Boone's 1774 military account books and his Kentucky land survey notebooks, papers by and about the noted Mohawk chief, Joseph Brant, and the Campaign Leader, Thomas Sumter, together with accounts of frontier life from the diary of Thomas Spottswood Hinde. The regional manuscripts include the Frontier War Papers - original letters and journals kept by participants in the Indian wars in the West from 1754 to 1815 - the Kentucky Papers and the King's Mountain Papers assembled by Draper to mark the centenary of the victory of frontier troops over Loyalist soldiers at King's Mountain, South Carolina in 1780.

Duke Indian Oral History Collection

This collection is the result of a wide program to obtain Indian Oral History for the purpose of giving the American Indians an opportunity to express their views as to their place in American history and heritage. It is a collection of primary historical documents, consisting of the tape-recorded verbal testimonies of knowledgeable Indian people concerning their history, culture and philosophy of life. The transcripts in this collection are from tape recordings from members of most of the Indian tribes in Oklahoma and were typed as they were recorded without any changes.

Genealogy and Local History

This collection assembles and preserves genealogies, local histories, primary source materials and genealogical and local history serials. When complete, Genealogy and Local History will encompass materials related to all 50 states and Canada as well as Great Britain, Ireland and many other countries of immigration to North America, making it an unprecedented resource and a major preservation project. ProQuest releases three units per year, adding approximately 1,500 titles to the collection annually. Each unit follows a carefully structured format and is accompanied by a printed guide providing access by fiche number, title, family name, geographic area and subject. ProQuest continues to broaden the depth of Genealogy and Local History by adding resources. Notable additions include the Newberry Library (Chicago), the Sutro branch of the California State Library, the New York Public Library and University of Illinois at Urbana.

A free printed guide accompanies each unit. The guide includes a bibliographic listing of all titles, as well as author, title, subject, name and geographic indexes

Harrington, John Peabody. The Papers of John Peabody Harrington in the Smithsonian Institution

1907 - 1957

John Peabody Harrington's field notes on Native-American language, culture, and history are considered one of the richest bodies of work existing in this field. After Harrington's death in 1961, scholars brought together his papers in the National Anthropological Archives of the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of Natural History. After years of effort by teams of archivists, microfilming of the papers began in 1976. The collection is comprised of field notes, slip-file dictionaries notes and drafts for published writings, photographs, sketches, correspondence, maps, and unpublished grammars and other manuscripts in various stages of completion. Overall, the collection contains more than 750,000 pages. It includes nine parts:

- Part 1: Alaska/Northwest Coast, 1982, 30 reels (plus paper guide/index)
- Part 2: Northern and Central California, 1985, 101 reels (plus paper guide/index)
- Part 3: Southern California/Basin, 19 86, 182 reels (plus paper guide/index)
- Part 4: Southwest, 1986, 58 reels (plus paper guide/index)
- Part 5: Plains, 1987, 17 reels (plus paper guide/index)
- Part 6: Northeast/Southeast, 1987, 18 reels (plus paper guide/index)
- Part 7: Mexico/Central America/South America, 1988, 36 reels (plus paper guide/index)
- Part 8: Notes and Writings on Special Linguistic Studies, 1989, 35 reels (plus paper guide/index)
- Part 9: Correspondence and Financial Records, 1991, 17 reels (plus paper guide/index)

This comprehensive and systematically-arranged collection is an essential research tool for anthropologists, ethnologists, and historians performing research in Native-American Studies.

Human Relations Area Files

Human Relations Area Files, Inc. (HRAF) is an internationally recognized organization in the field of cultural anthropology. Established as a not-for-profit membership consortium of universities, colleges and research institutions, HRAF's mission is to provide information that facilitates the cross-cultural study of human behavior, society and culture. HRAF grew out of work in the 1930s by behavioral scientists at the Yale University Institute of Human Relations who began development of a classification scheme for cultural information by subject. The Human Relations Area Files was incorporated in 1949 with Harvard University, the University of Oklahoma, the University of Pennsylvania, the University of Washington and Yale University as its founding members. These five were joined within the year by the University of Chicago, the University of North Carolina and the University of Southern California. Some 300 colleges, universities, libraries, museums and research institutions in the United States and 25 other countries are now Associate or Sponsoring Members.

HRAF is a financially independent research agency of Yale University in New Haven, Connecticut. Since World War II, the growing concern of students, scholars and the general public around the world to understand ethnic conflict, cultural diversity and global problems has generated a demand for educational and research programs emphasizing the worldwide, comparative study of human behavior and society. The development of cross-cultural and area studies requires an extensive body of readily available organized cultural information. Scattered among myriad journals, dissertations and fieldwork studies and across numerous disciplines, conventional sources of such information are often inaccessible, expensive and difficult to utilize effectively. The HRAF collections are specifically designed to lessen these barriers to cross-cultural research.

Human Rights Watch Publications

1980 - 2006

Founded in 1978, Human Rights Watch is dedicated to protecting the rights of individuals worldwide. The organization conducts regular, systematic investigations of human rights abuses in approximately 70 countries and produces a wealth of timely publications documenting these crimes. Since it began publishing reports in 1980, Human Rights Watch has produced more than 1,200 publications, covering over 100 countries and ranging from 6-page, country-specific investigations to the comprehensive Human Rights Watch Annual Report and longer reports of 900 pages. All of these publications are now available on microfiche. The HRW microfiche collection is available on a year-of-publication basis.

"We see this as an important agreement, both for preservation of our publications and also for ease of access to the older materials, which are often difficult to find." —Patrick Minges, Director of Publications, Human Rights Watch.

Human Rights Watch publications contain information not available from any other source, covering many of the most significant issues of our times. They are relied upon by citizens' organizations, policymakers, the press, the academic community and concerned individuals worldwide. Libraries and their patrons will find the microfiche edition of the Human Rights Watch 1980–2008 publications to be an invaluable resource.

Ongoing supplements will be added to the Alternative Press collection on a yearly basis.

Indian Pioneer Papers

1860 - 1935

The Indian Pioneer papers consists of interviews of elderly early day settlers in Oklahoma which were collected in the late 1930s. This collection consists of typescripts of 7,105 interviews of various early day settlers (white, Indians, blacks, etc.) and covers a time period from about 1860-1935. Additional materials contain data gathered on the location and history of various old cemeteries in the state as well as questionnaires giving biographical data on those who were interviewed.

The microfiche version available from ProQuest reproduces the bound set of Indian Pioneer Papers located at the University of Oklahoma. All volumes of the papers are represented. (Note: another set of the Indian Pioneer Papers is held at the Oklahoma Historical Society. This set of papers is no longer available in microform.)

The Indian Rights Association Papers

1864 - 1973

In 1882, the Indian Rights Association (IRA) was formed in Philadelphia to influence public sentiment and Congressional action concerning the civil rights and education of Native Americans. Now, more than 100 years later, both the historical and modern treatment of this minority remains a controversial issue. The archives in this microfilm collection provide researchers of Native-American and social history with the relevant, authoritative source documents required for any complete study of this topic. Students can trace and measure the progress of the IRA as it prompted Congressional legislation, conducted field studies to gather factual information on Indian affairs, and supported federal and state court cases in its efforts to secure basic rights for Native Americans. Specific events concerning American Indian history include:

- The Indian Rights Association's founding by white reformers and churchmen
- The IRA's gradual shift in position from outright assimilation of Indians to support for Indian independence
- The 1887 passage of the Dawes Land-In-Severalty Act, which set government Indian policy until the 1934 Indian Reorganization Act
- The 1924 IRA-sponsored bill which granted U.S. citizenship to American Indians

This important Native American collection was assembled from the holdings of the Indian Rights Association located at the Historical Society in Philadelphia, and it includes the Herbert Welsh Papers, 1877-1934, relating to Welsh's work with the IRA, as well as the Council on Indian Affairs Papers, 1943-68, bringing together valuable materials otherwise limited in accessibility. The collection is conveniently divided into the following Individual Subject Series, to facilitate research within and across subject categories:

- Series I-A: Incoming Correspondence, 1864-1968 – 65 reels 35mm
- Series I-B: Supplementary Incoming Correspondence, 1930-1967 – 2 reels 35mm

Jesuit Relations of New France

1601 - 1800

Reuben Gold Thwaites, for a number of years superintendent of the Wisconsin Historical Society, edited 73 volumes of The Jesuit Relations and Allied Documents: Travels and Explorations of The Jesuit Missionaries in New France in 1610-1791. This set is a prime source for the history of Canada in the 17th and 18th centuries. It is indispensable for general studies of North America in the colonial period and records manners, customs and traditions of the northern tribes of American Indians from a period for which there are few other records.

Pamphlets in American History

Beginning with Tom Paine's Common Sense, which altered the course of early U.S. history; pamphlets have played a crucial role in American history. Pamphlet literature has been the medium through which people have expressed their opinions and feelings on contemporary affairs. This unique microfiche collection brings to your library these historic documents of public opinion, which are generally unavailable as research sources. There are more than 15,000 titles in this collection, drawn from all periods of United States history. Pamphlets in American History also provides the cataloging necessary to integrate pamphlet literature into the mainstream of collection development activities. This collection has been carefully designed to meet the needs of historians and librarians in the areas of bibliographic control and access. Each of the five groups within the collection is accompanied by its own guide and each guide includes bibliographic citations, author title and subject indexes. In addition, complete cataloging is available for each portion of the collection.

Pamphlets in American History is organized within each group in subject-specific segments. In this way, the collection can be tailored to meet a library's collecting policies or departmental teaching strengths. The historical information contained in the pamphlets is as rich and varied as the authors. Included are biographies, campaign literature, speeches, legal decisions, trade union leaflets, personal narratives and more. (Does not duplicate materials in Pamphlets on the Civil War, 1861-1865) The American History pamphlets collection at the State Historical Society of Wisconsin has been a major resource for this undertaking. The collection also draws upon the pamphlet resources of many other general and special collections, including: the Syracuse University Libraries; The Tamiment Library of New York University; The New-York Historical Society; The Kenneth Spencer Research Library of the University of Kansas; and the Walter Clinton Jackson Library at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Parral Papers

1631 - 1821

This unique microfilm collection represents perhaps the most definitive historical record of the Southwestern United States and Mexico. Spanning the years 1631-1821, El Archivo de Hildalgo del Parral is a collection of official records, directives, treaties, court transcripts, wills, letters and other documents relating to the Spanish Colonial Era in "Nueva Vizcaya" - the region now including much of the southwestern United States and much of Mexico. Over 360,000 manuscript pages, written in Spanish, provide primary reference on the administration of government, Indian uprisings, slavery, public entertainment, military organization, silver mining, official residences, crime and punishment and civil law. Since the history of the Southwest is often clouded by fiction, the Parral Papers benefit serious researchers attempting to uncover accurate historical data. Included are references to Father Eusebio Koni, the accusation of Juan Mange by the Jesuits, a report on the assassination of the governor of New Mexico in 1644, plus an account of the 1720 peace treaties with the Apaches and the Texans.

Pepper, George Hubbard. George Hubbard Pepper Papers

1895 - 1918

Both an ethnologist and archaeologist, George Hubbard Pepper specialized in the Indian cultures of the American Southwest. Famous for his discoveries at Pueblo Bonito in Chaco Canyon, New Mexico, he also completed important fieldwork in Mexico and Ecuador. A prolific writer, Pepper became a popular lecturer, much noted for his eloquence. This collection contains manuscripts written or collected by Pepper during his more than 25 years of work in the field, as well as maps, textile fragments, paintings, drawings, clippings, articles and photographs. Particularly noteworthy for its materials on the customs, languages, textiles, pottery, religions and lifestyles of the Navaho, Hopi and Zuñi Indian tribes in the American Southwest, the papers are of great interest to researchers in anthropology, ethnology, archaeology and Latin- and Native-American studies.

Primary Sources for the History of Pharmacy in the U.S.: Pharmacy from the Colonial Period through 1940

1700 - 1940

This microfiche collection provides scholars, students and historians with a fine collection of primary sources for comprehensive study of the history of pharmacy as a science and a profession in the United States. It traces the practice of pharmacy from the Colonial Period, when European methods met Native-American naturalist treatments, through the development of modern pharmaceutical practice based on biomedical research. The collection contains books on pharmaceutical law, treatises, lectures, textbooks and other antiquarian and scholarly materials. There are drug catalogs and formula books that provide vivid descriptions of medicines and instructions on how to use them. Botany texts document the medicinal use of various plants in the treatment of illness. Any institution supporting a degree-granting pharmacy program as well as allied health science programs such as nursing or medicine will find this collection to be a necessary resource for teaching and research. The collection was filmed at the University of Wisconsin in cooperation with the American Institute of the History of Pharmacy. Some books are from the National Library of Medicine at Bethesda, Maryland and the Center for Research Libraries, Chicago, Illinois.

Stefansson, Vilhjalmur. Arctic Expedition Diaries of Vilhjalmur Stefansson

1878 - 1925

This unique record of native Arctic culture provides researchers in anthropology, Arctic culture, and geography with detailed documentation of Eskimo life before it was altered by Western values. The collection chronicles three expeditions made by Vilhjalmur Stefansson between 1906 and 1918 to the isolated regions of the North. In his diaries, Stefansson provides factual and insightful accounts of Eskimo hunting trips, religious beliefs, legends, and family traditions. Also included are:

- Translations of Eskimo words and phrases
- Extensive charts of the Eskimos physical measurements
- A map documenting the seasonal migration paths of the Eskimo tribes
- Sketches illustrating Eskimo clothing

Stefansson wrote his diaries entirely in English and used them as the background for his book, My Life with the Eskimo (1913), as well as for subsequent books he wrote on the Arctic. The original diaries are held by the Dartmouth College Library and by the Public Archives of Canada. Of special interest in this collection are two separate reels of film containing the logbooks of 23 voyages Stefansson took between 1878 and 1925. These lengthy trading and expedition trips provide accounts of daily life at sea, as well as further background on and insight into the life of the explorer Stefansson.

Western Americana

1701 - 1976

The settling of the western territories of the United States is a subject that continues to fascinate both the serious researcher and the history buff. The courage and pioneer spirit of the men and women who explored and settled these new lands will always remain an integral part of the American character and legend. Western Americana offers students of American history and others interested in learning more about this country's growth a wide range of books and documents about the American west. This comprehensive microfiche collection spans the 18th through the early 20th centuries, and includes federal and state documents, directories, guidebooks, state and regional histories, memoirs, reminiscences and travel accounts, and conventional primary and secondary histories of the west. Clark C. Spence and the four other prominent historians who compiled this collection set out to present researchers with firsthand accounts by the ordinary men and women who built the west - sodbusters, livery stable keepers, middle-class housewives. These personal narratives by people who directly observed the early western scene provide unique, vivid descriptions of the conditions and events at the time. For example, Caroline Kirkland's A New Home - Who'll Follow? provides a realistic portrayal of frontier life in Michigan during the 1830s. These informative personal accounts are balanced throughout the collection with numerous works by professional historians, thus providing a complete overview of American history as the settled lands pushed closer and closer to the Pacific Ocean. Western Americana is organized into sub-collections that may be purchased separately. The following sub-collections relate to Native-American studies:

- The Frontier Thesis
- Earlier Wests
- The Trails West
- Indians
- Agriculture
- Urban Development
- Conservation & Use of Resources
- Culture, Religion, Education
- The Fur Trade & Early Exploration
- Travel Accounts, Memoirs, Reminiscences
- Directories & Guidebooks
- Regional, State, & Local Histories

Within these sub-collections, researchers can explore such areas as accounts of early Anglo-American, French and Spanish explorations in the west, personal narratives by fur trappers and traders and more. The 1,012 titles included also provide a wealth of material on economics, government explorations, religion, education and culture. The collection offers one of the most exciting resources available depicting the western experience as it relates to the social, economic and political development of our country.

Government Documents from Micromedia-ProQuest

Titles Related to Native American Studies

The following titles contained in this section are government collections and serials available from Micromedia-ProQuest. They contain important information such as Parliamentary Publications and Royal Commission Reports. Please inquire for more detailed information on any of the following titles.

Canadian Parliamentary Committees

1935 - Present

Parliament 17-current

Parliament is making its committees stronger, which means vigorous debate at the committee-stage for bills. Therefore, researchers will need complete information on what was said. These collections include House and Senate Committees as well as House of Commons Legislative Committees. The microfiche are organized in a logical order by parliamentary session and we also provide clear labels for each microfiche to make finding and using them easy for library users.

Subscriptions are available for all or selected committees. You may order the complete set; by House, Joint or Senate Committee; or by selecting committees by subject. Current subscriptions can only be ordered by Subject Groupings of committees and backfiles of the collection can be ordered in series organized by Parliament. Backfiles and Current Committees are also available in Subject Groupings by policy area designed for special libraries. The following is a list of Committees available: Social & Cultural Affairs; Resources, Environment & Sciences; Finance, External Affairs & Defense; and Justice & Government Business. This shorter list is of committee reports and proceedings which are most relevant to Native American Studies:

- House of Commons Standing Committee on Aboriginal Affairs, 1989-1993

Departmental Annual Reports

1975 - Present

These are documents, tabled before Parliament, that record agencies' activities. This historical collection of departmental annual reports provides information on activities, statistics and special reports. Only English editions of the reports have been filmed and from 1975, departmental annual reports appear in Microlog and are indexed in the Canadian Research Index. We also film Departmental Reports submitted to legislatures as Budgets and Estimates. Recently, some Federal Departments and Agencies have omitted publishing a separate Annual Report because the information is already included in Departmental Estimates. Our files go back to the 1880s and are as current as the reports covering last year. In many cases, we have the complete files for Federal Departments. The following are the three subsets of departmental annual reports that are available: Federal Provincial Reports; Budgets & Estimates; and Agencies, Commissions, Councils & Institutes. Reports relevant to Native American Studies were issued under various branches & departments over the years. We have gathered them together in this set.

- Department of Indian Affairs, 1867-1975

Royal Commission Reports

1867 – 1986

This collection covers 300 reports, which includes all extant reports listed in Henderson, Federal Royal Commissions in Canada: A Checklist. UMI Dissertation Publishing

Soon after its founding in 1938, UMI became the publisher of record for U.S. doctoral dissertations. To this day, ProQuest fills that role for graduate students whose dissertations and masters theses have been accepted by accredited institutions throughout North America.

How UMI's Dissertation Program Works

Dissertations and theses available from ProQuest /UMI are used by researchers in all fields of study. The ProQuest /UMI dissertation product line – which consists of bibliographic data, indexing, access tools and the published documents themselves – is recognized worldwide because of its comprehensive coverage, high-quality information and rigorous editorial control.

The online ProQuest Dissertation & Theses Database (PQDT) catalogs over 2 million doctoral dissertations and master's theses, dating from the first U.S. dissertation in 1861. Thousands more are added yearly. Over one million dissertations and theses are available in full page image in microform and paper, both bound and unbound. Many are also available in digital format, for downloading over the Web. Dissertations can be located and ordered on a standing order basis or via:

- ProQuest Dissertations & Theses, which provides searching capabilities and online access to citations and abstracts for every title in the database. Titles published since 1997 are available in .PDF digital format and have citation and abstract, plus 24 page previews available. Dissertations can be purchased in print, microfiche or .pdf format.
- ProQuest Dissertation Express for both individuals and libraries. If you have a specific title in mind, Dissertation Express will let you look it up by title, author or publication number. Once you find it, you can place your order immediately via our online ordering system. Use this service when you know exactly which dissertation you need to order. Dissertations can be purchased in print, microfiche or .pdf format.
- DATRIX Direct – custom computerized search service (please see the DATRIX form enclosed in this document). This is an individualized search we perform for you based on your specific research topic.
- UMI Digital Archiving and Access Program - Ask your UMI representative about this new access and preservation service for institutions.

DATRIX DIRECT

Direct to you Successful research depends on your sources. That's why if you're preparing to start a research project, it makes sense to first find out what's been written in your area of interest. You'll not only avoid duplicating someone else's work, you'll benefit from their research. | You could search the titles of over 1.6 million dissertations and master's theses yourself—if you have the time and patience. Or you can have DATRIX Direct conduct a dissertation search for you that's exhaustive, not exhausting.

Discover sources unique to your topic

DATRIX Direct is an individualized search that gives a one-of-a-kind listing of only those dissertation citations directly relevant to your specific research topic. The result is a computer printout of exactly the bibliographic citations you need. No more and no less. It could be as many as five hundred or as few as none (informing you that your research topic is totally unexplored).

Because it's a computerized search, DATRIX Direct is comprehensive—through UMI's vast computer database of over 1.6 million dissertations and master's theses dating back to 1861. And with thousands of citations being added to the database every month, DATRIX Direct is more up-to-date than any printed source. ■ Each citation includes a title, author, degree, date, institution, subject category, and order number, as well as where the abstract can be found in UMI's monthly publication Dissertation Abstracts International or the bi monthly Masters Abstracts International.

How to order your search To organize your search, complete both sides of the DATRIX Direct Search Request form and send it to UMI at the address shown. ■

The results of your DATRIX Direct search will be sent first-class mail and should arrive within two weeks of receipt of your order. For faster service, call us toll free at 800-521-3042; outside the U.S. and Canada, call 734-761-4700, ext. 7044.

SUBJECT CATEGORIES Dissertation Abstracts International is arranged by subject categories. These categories have been selected by the authors to identify their dissertations.

MATRIX DIRECT SEARCH REQUEST

The success of your search depends on how accurately and specifically you describe your research needs. The information you provide below will help us create a search strategy. Please type or clearly print in ink.

RESEARCH TOPIC Write the proposed title of your study or a summary of your research topic _____

DATABASE MATERIAL TO BE SEARCHED (Please check one.) Dissertations & master's theses Dissertations only Master's theses only

KEYWORDS UMI's dissertation database is accessed by a search for keywords in the dissertation title. The number of relevant citations retrieved depends largely on your keyword strategy. For best results, follow the procedure below:

1 Write 1 to 3 keywords from your research topic that might appear together in the dissertation titles in our database (e.g., "Nursing Burnout"). A keyword can also be numeric ("1980") or alphanumeric ("B12"). Only dissertation titles containing all the words you list on a single line can be retrieved.

2 To avoid having to list all possible word endings for a keyword, simply write the root word and an asterisk. One or more complete words must follow the root word on the same line (e.g., "Nurs*", "Burnout" would search for words such as "nurse, nurses, and nursing" which appear in the same titles as "burnout").

3 Use the other lines for synonyms and alternate words and spellings (e.g., "RN; LPN; BSN").

4 Modify words likely to appear in hundreds of titles with more specific words.

5 If appropriate, use the right-hand column to list keywords that exclude data you don't want. (e.g., "Nurs", "Home" and "Nurs", "Homes" would exclude titles relating to nursing homes or home nursing. Note that the computer recognizes no word order.)

SUBJECT CATEGORIES (optional) Each citation title is listed in UMI's dissertation database in a subject category chosen by the author. On the opposite page is a complete listing of subject categories and codes. List the categories (and codes) most relevant to your research topic.

CODE	CATEGORY

DEGREE DATES (optional) You may narrow the database search to certain years or time periods (e.g., "1980 through 1983"). This is especially recommended for broad categories such as "Education, Administrative", for which nearly 1,200 titles are added each year.

INSTITUTIONS AWARDING DEGREES (optional) You may restrict the search to dissertations and master's theses prepared for specific institutions (e.g., "New York University and UCLA").
